WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA:

A high pressure ridge over the area today will weaken and give way to increasing and thickening clouds as the next low pressure system approaches. This system should give the entire area a low end wetting rain (0.15- 0.30 inches) with a few areas of locally higher amounts. Rain should begin this evening along the coast and spread inland over all areas Thursday. Snow levels should remain high (above 7000 feet). High pressure moves back in this weekend into early next week, but even though temperatures should warm back up, humidity will remain near normal mid-November levels. There could also be a warm front that brushes for Northern areas with light rain late Sunday-Monday. Next significant precipitating event possible by middle of next week.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Partly cloudy skies and slightly below normal temperatures can be expected again today as a deep marine layer covers much of Southern California. Morning cloud cover should give way to some hazy afternoon sunshine and temperatures in the lower 70's can be expected in the valleys with upper 50's and 60's likely in the mountains. Late tonight into Thursday, a dissipating trough will bring some light rain to the northern half of the state. Rain will reach the central coast area and the Sierras north of Fresno County by Thursday morning while the rest of the area remains dry. Rainfall amounts look to be under a quarter of an inch in these areas with the heaviest amounts likely occurring over Monterey County. It will turn very windy in and near the deserts Thursday where west to northwest winds of 20-30 mph with gusts to 40 mph will be possible in the afternoon. Thursday night, north winds of 10-20 mph will be possible over the I-5 Corridor. Look for sunny and less windy weather Friday. This weekend, a sharp ridge of high pressure is expected to develop offshore which will lead to warmer temperatures. Long range models indicate a significant cold front may plunge into the Great Basin and Rockies which may lead to gusty offshore winds Sunday afternoon into Monday. Temperatures may climb back to above normal readings by Monday with very low daytime relative humidity. The offshore wind event, were it to occur, does not appear to last long as a trough may bring cooler temperatures and light rain to most of the district by Tuesday evening.

The filing deadline to return applications for property damage is 12/01/14. The deadline to return economic injury applications is 07/01/15.
- On 10/06/14, the Governor issued Executive Order (EO) B-27-14, which provides CDAA, and debris removal assistance, including the suspension of rules and regulations impacting debris removal. The VAL is working with nonprofit organizations on seeking reimbursement.
- The Cal OES VAL continues to coordinate and participate in Long Term Recovery Group (LTRG) meetings with NGO, Faith Based, and local agencies. Shasta Community Foundation was identified as a fiscal agent for the group. Individuals needing assistance should be directed to the Family & Community Resource Center of Weed located at 260 Main Street, Weed. Great Northern Services will work with the VAL to identify the need for assistance. If funding is approved, payments will be made directly to the landlord and or utility company. The rental and utility needs of residents affected by the Happy Camp fire will also be captured.
- The College of the Siskiyou's website contains a Fire Resource List of various local agencies offering goods and services. The document can be found at <http://www.siskiyou.edu/humanresources/documents/fireresourcelist.pdf>. Additional information on recovery efforts can be found at <https://weed.recovers.org/>.

- On 10/28/14, the City of Weed reestablished water pressure to its downtown area; however, the water storage capacity for fire suppression is still lacking. The City expects water storage to be restored by 12/31/14, or sooner if the weather permits.
